I. Annotation

1. Purpose and objectives of the discipline

The purpose of mastering the discipline "Lexicology of modern English" is the formation and development of general professional competences in students of training direction 45.03.02. Practical objectives of the course are: 1) development of skills of lexical analysis of words; 2) formation of students' linguistic, linguistic (at the level of knowledge of the history and theory of lexicology) and communicative competence; 3) formation of skills of professional pedagogical and methodological orientation in the study of various topics of the course; 4) possession of the system of linguistic knowledge of basic phonetic, lexical, grammar, word formation phenomena, spelling and punctuation, the laws of functioning of the studied foreign

2. Place of the discipline (or module) in the structure of the curriculum (OOP)

The discipline belongs to the compulsory part of the curriculum of Block 1 and is linked to such disciplines as: "Practical course of the first foreign language", "Practical course of the second foreign language", disciplines of variative part ("Methods of teaching foreign languages"), educational and production practice (research work of the student), during which the ability to study special literature and other scientific and technical information, achievements of domestic and foreign science and technology in the relevant field of knowledge and apply actual methods of processing, analysis and systematization of information on the subject are consolidated. For successful mastering of the discipline "Lexicology of the English language" it is necessary:

- Have an understanding of the main scientific trends in general linguistics;
- Have a basic knowledge of the terminology of the discipline of "Foundations of Linguistics";
- Know the grammar and vocabulary rules of English speech.

3 The volume of the discipline (or module):

3 credit units, 108 academic hours, including

- contact hours: 34 hours (lectures: 17 hours, seminars: 17 hours);
- independent work of students: 47 hours;
- supervision of independent work: 27 hours.

4. List of planned learning outcomes of the discipline (or module), correlated with the planned learning outcomes of the educational programme

The expected results of the educational programme (competencies to be acquired)
General Professional Competence-1 (GPC-1). The ability to apply the system of linguistic knowledge of basic phonetic, lexical, grammatical, word-formation phenomena, orthography and punctuation, the regularities of the functioning of the studied foreign language and its functional varieties.	GPC- 1.1. Interprets basic phonetic, lexical, grammatical , word-formation phenomena, rules of spelling and punctuation, identifies regularities in the functioning of the studied foreign language GPC- 1.2 Orientates in current scientific paradigms, schools, concepts of linguistics GPC- 1.3. Compares and analyses linguistic phenomena, functional varieties of language GPC- 1.5 Analyse the use of language in the text and in speech activities

5. Form of intermediate assessment

The following are the main forms of ongoing and end-of-course monitoring of the above knowledge, skills and competencies:

- Oral questioning, checking home oral and written exercises;
- Performing exercises in the classroom;
- Preparation of abstracts, reports, presentations on topics;
- written quizzes, tests;
- spontaneous dialogues, discussions on topics covered;
- A final roundtable discussion on the material covered.

The final inspection takes place at the end of Term 5 in the form of an examination.

7. The language of instruction is English.

VI. Guidance materials for students in mastering the discipline

Preparing for the practical exercises

Working with all materials (lectures and textbooks) requires the student to clearly understand the objectives of each specific task and to achieve them in the most rational way. When preparing for the practical sessions, one should constantly pay attention to the list of additional literature suggested by the teacher as a source of materials and information on a particular issue. Careful thought should be given to technical details when preparing presentations.

The students' independent work involves

- study of compulsory and supplementary literature;
- work with the lecture notes;
- work with Internet resources;
- drafting of an outline and/or talking points;
- Familiarise yourself with and carry out/complete exercises and tests;
- Writing essays, papers, reports and presentations;
- Regular repetition of what has been learned, on which the material that follows is based;
- work with dictionaries and other lexicographic sources;
- The vocabulary and the active use of terms relevant to the topic of the unit.

The abstract consists of an abstract review of the literature on the subject. The content of the paper is primarily determined by the topic. However, irrespective of the topic, there are a number of requirements that apply to all types of work. The general prerequisite is a clear understanding of the subject matter. For this reason, it is important to begin with a thorough understanding of the material presented in the textbooks. A thorough study of it will help to guide the choice of the topic and facilitate the process of writing the paper itself. This will also help you to write a preliminary outline.

There are four main steps in carrying out the work:

- 1) bibliography, i.e. the selection of literature on the research topic;
- 2) cataloguing, i.e. the accumulation and processing of linguistic material;
- 3) classification of the material;
- 4) a coherent description of the material studied, i.e. writing the paper itself.

3. What is not included into the subject of etymology?
 - (a) The origin of different words
 - b) the linguistic and extralinguistic forces modifying word structure, meaning and usage
 - c) the vocabulary of a language from the angle of its sound system
 - (d) Changes and development of words
4. What does semantics study?
 - (a) Meanings of words
 - (b) History of words
 - c) sound forms of words
 - (d) Word concessions
5. What approach to vocabulary studies is mainly used by descriptive lexicology?
 - (a) historical
 - (b) synchronical
 - (c) diachronical

The word as the basic unit of the lexical system.

The Theory of the Word. The Inner Structure.

1. What type of morphemes is the most recurrent in English words?
 - (a) derivational affixes
 - (b) roots
 - (c) Functional affixes
 - (d) markers
2. What type of morphemes did E. Nida call outer formatives?
 - (a) derivational affixes
 - (b) roots
 - (c) Functional affixes
 - (d) markers
3. The morpheme "map" in the word "seaman" refers to:
 - (a) unique morphemes
 - (b) Semi-affixes
 - c) root morphemes
4. Affixes used to form new words in the period in question are called:
 - (a) newly-formed
 - (b) productive
 - (c) active
5. The term "hybrids" denotes:
 - (a) Words referring to different classes

- (b) Words derived from two or more stems
- (c) elements derived from two or more different languages

*Vocabulary in the etymological aspect.
The Etymology of the English Words.*

Test 1

1. A word which belongs to the original English stock is:
 - (a) a native word
 - (b) a loan word
 - (c) assimilation of a loan
 - (d) a semantic loan

2. A word taken over from another language and modified according to the standards of the English language is:
 - (a) a native word
 - (b) a loan word
 - (c) a semantic word
 - (d) an etymological doublet

3. The native words are further subdivided into those of:
 - a) Indo-European stock and common Germanic original
 - (b) Latin and Roman original
 - (c) Greek and German origin

4. The term "source of borrowing" should be distinguished from the term
 - (a) a native word
 - (b) an evaluative word
 - (c) an origin of borrowing

5. The term denoting the development in an English word of a new meaning due to the influence of a related word in another language is:
 - (a) A loan
 - (b) loan translation
 - (c) Semantic loan

*Semantics of the word.
The Semantic Structure of a word.*

Test 1

1. What branch of lexicology studies the meaning of words?
 - (a) phraseology
 - (b) Semasiology
 - (c) descriptive lexicology

2. With what kind of meaning does semasiology deal?
 - a) with lexical meaning only
 - (b) with grammatical meaning
 - c) with meaning of borrowed words only

3. What does semasiology study diachronically?
 - a) word meaning at a given moment of time
 - (b) the change in meaning the words undergo
 - c) assimilation of borrowed words

4. What does the synchronic approach study?

- (a) Meanings of individual words
- (b) Semantic structures typical of the language studied
- (c) the change in meaning the words undergo

5. What is excluded from the object of semasiology?
- (a) Semantic development of words, its causes and classification
 - (b) Relevant distinctive features and types of lexical meaning
 - (c) semantic grouping of words
 - (d) The grammatical structure of words

1. Introduction.

Fundamentals: Lexicology, its object, methods.
