Purpose and objectives of the discipline (module)

The aim of the discipline (module) is: to form and develop the following competences in students:

General Professional Competence -1.1 - ability to interpret basic phonetic, lexical, grammatical, word-formation phenomena, rules of orthography and punctuation, identify the regularity of functioning of the studied foreign language.

General Professional Competence -1.2 - Ability to navigate modern scientific paradigms, schools, concepts of linguistics.

General Professional Competence -1.3 - ability to compare and analyse linguistic phenomena, functional varieties of language.

General Professional Competence -1.5 - ability to analyse the use of language in the text and in speech activities

The objectives of mastering the discipline: Having mastered the discipline, the student must: have an idea about the historical processes in the field of the English language and about the trends in its development; understand the significance of the relationship between the history of the people, its culture and the history of the language; know the basic terms of German philology and the history of the English language, the main historical processes in the field of English phonetics, grammar, vocabulary; be able to clearly state and argue their point of view, using the acquired conceptual apparatus; reconstruct a hypothetical form of the word; trace the phonetic and graphic development of the word from the Old English period to the modern; explain the gap (inconsistency) between the spelling and pronunciation of many modern English words; analyze the origin of modern noun and verb endings; identify the etymology of modern English words; apply their knowledge to explain the so-called "exceptions" in the system of modern English in the light of its historical development; extrapolate patterns of language development and predict its further development.

2. The place of discipline in the structure of the OOP

The discipline "History of Language (English)" is included in the variable part of the professional cycle. The discipline is based on the courses "Foreign language", "Practical course of the first foreign language", "Ancient languages and cultures", "Fundamentals of linguistics", "History and geography of the countries of the first foreign language". Auxiliary material is the data of other languages: Gothic, German, French, Latin.

Starting to study the discipline, the student must have an idea of modern English as a result of its centuries-old development; know the basic phonetic, grammatical, lexicological terms.

3. Volume of discipline:

3 credits, 108 academic hours, including contact classroom work: 36 hours (lectures 18 hours, practical classes 18 hours), contact extracurricular work: control of independent work 27 hours, independent work: 45 hours, including control 27.

IV. Materials for current and interim assessments

1. Sample test tasks to check the competence of competence General Professional Competence-1.1 (ability to interpret basic phonetic, lexical, grammatical, word-formation phenomena, rules of orthography and punctuation, identify patterns of functioning of the studied foreign language) and General Professional Competence-1.2 (ability to orient in modern scientific paradigms, schools, concepts of linguistics).

1. Define the class of the following Old English strong verbs. Give their basic forms.

aigan "OWE" – ...; diups "DEEP" – ...; badi "BED" – ...; arms "ARM" – ...; wōpjan "WEEP" – ...; kusjan "KISS" – ...; twai "TWO" – ...; baug "BOWED" – ...; halp "HELPED" – ...; satjan "SET" – ...; haldan "HOLD" – ...; hailjan "HEAL" – ...; hausjan "HEAR" – ...; gruri "terror" – ...; haiþi "waste, heath" – ...; ains "ONE" – ...

2. Determine what phonetic phenomena can explain the diphthongs in the following Old English words.

ceap "CHEAP"; sceort "SHORT"; scearp "SHARP"; ceorfan "CARVE"; scaft "SHAFT"; sceawian "SHOW"; ceald "COLD"; ʒe-sceap "SHAPE"; stream "STREAM"; ceorl "CHURL"; ceosan "CHOOSE".

3. The student demonstrates the ability to use the correct verb forms and tenses. Simple statements are grammatically correct, the volume of the statement meets the program requirements
4. The student answers the interlocutor's questions with pleasure, uses a variety of vocabulary, which creates the impression of a natural situation. Tries to eliminate the influence of the native language.
5. The student uses a wide range of vocabulary, overcomes lexical difficulties in expressing thoughts. Uses complex sentences. Speech behavior is communicatively and cognitively justified.

2. Exercises to check the competence of General Professional Competence-1.3 (ability to compare and analyse linguistic phenomena, functional varieties of language), General Professional Competence-1.4 (ability to determine the role of ancient languages in the formation of the modern system of the studied foreign language and factors of language development) and General Professional Competence-1.5 (ability to analyse the use of language means in the text and in the process of speech activity).

1. Give definitions of the terms "ablaut", "class exponent", "strong verbs", "weak verbs", "preterite-present verbs"

2. Prove that weak verbs became a productive means of formbuilding in ME.

3. Define the class of the OE strong verb and mention the exponent. Restore the missing OE forms.

drāf; scufon; eten; boren; dreaȝ; cearf; scrifon; borȝen; biden; ȝeaf; ȝalan; climban; spræc; funden; hæl; sturfon.

Criteria of assessment:

General characteristics of the Germanic languages.

Old English phonetic system.

Old English verb.

Old English noun.

Old English adjective.

Middle English phonetic system.

Early New English phonetic system.

The development of the verb system in Middle English and Early Modern English.

The abstract consists of a review of the literature on the issue. The content of the paper is primarily determined by the topic. However, irrespective of the topic, there are a number of requirements that apply to all types of work. The general prerequisite is a clear understanding of the subject matter. For this reason, you should begin with an understanding of the material covered in the general English course. A thorough study of it will help to better guide the choice of the topic and facilitate the process of writing the paper itself. This will also allow you to manage the drafting of a preliminary plan.

There are four main steps in carrying out the work:

- 1) bibliography, i.e. the selection of literature on the topic of the study;
- 2) cataloguing, i.e. the accumulation and processing of linguistic material;
- 3) classification of material;
- 4) a coherent description of the material studied, i.e. the writing of the paper itself.

Final practical task

Conducting a summative study on the Middle English Verb (in comparison with OE and NE)

In modern education, the main task of the teacher is to create the conditions for the student to become an active participant in the process of professional development, which implies organising productive interaction in the classroom; organisation of students' independent extracurricular work; making the whole learning process exploratory and creative.

In accordance with these principles, a final practical assignment has been developed for students who have mastered the Language History course, which makes it possible to assess the level of certain competences.

The final practical assignment is completed by the students themselves.

Independent work in this case refers to the planned work of students carried out under the instructions and methodological guidance of the teacher, but without the teacher's direct participation outside the classroom. This final assignment involves active individual and group activities aimed at the creative application of the learnt material.

Assignment for students:

Middle English Verb (in comparison with OE and NE Verb)

1. Study:

Ilyish B.A.: §§ 373-383 (ME); §§ 570-584 (NE); revise OE verb.

Rastorguyeva T.A.: §§ 475-486 (ME); revise OE verb.

2. Do the following assignments:

a) Illustrate (by examples from Chaucer) the process of reduction (and even loss) of endings in the ME verb system;

b) Illustrate grammatical homonymy and synonymy in the ME verb system (Chaucer);

c) Find out the origin of NE regular and irregular verbs;

d) Prove that weak verbs have become a productive means of form-building in ME. (Give examples from Chaucer.)

Guidelines (for mini-analysis)

Pick out from Chaucer's text inflected verb-forms (do not forget to mention the number of the line it occurs in).

Group native verbs into several columns according to principal forms (+ pre-sentential plural).

Trace ME endings back to OE and compare them.

Make conclusions about the reduction and loss of endings.

Find in these columns: (a) different forms with the same ending; (b) the same forms with different endings. What are both types of endings called?

Time to prepare the project: 2 weeks
